

10.03.05 WASHINGTON SQUARE NEWS

- NEWS
- FEATURES
- ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT
- SPORTS
- OPINION

Editor's Note: WSN is in the process of switching website providers, and as such, we have had intermittent problems posting articles from July and August. Please bear with us while we make this switch, and be on the lookout for a brand new nyunews.com launching this fall. And of course, you can always pick up a paper copy of WSN at any of our 95 locations in and around campus.

NEWS

Lynch tells students, 'Your brain needs this'

When celebrities tout their own religions, the result is often a disaster. Scientology, anyone? So when famed director David Lynch came to speak about his life and his experiences with transcendental meditation, students were more drawn by his cinematic experience than his personal beliefs.

MORE NEWS

- NYU prof fights int'l crime
- Declassified docs projected onto Bobst Library
- Midterms pose problems for NYU Jews
- Profes talk on Gaza pull out

FEATURES

Law keeps up fight against Solomon

It can be hard to stay enthusiastic about a cause for 28 years — but NYU law professor Sylvia Law has been able to keep her head up the entire time.

MORE FEATURES

- Finding a cheaper calling option
- Thoughts for cash at psychology dept.
- B.A. in love? Gallatin's odd majors
- Student gives voice to activist causes

SPORTS

Women's v-ball wins three games

The women's volleyball team demolished any fear of University Athletic Association competition, winning all three of their matches at the UAA Round Robin this past weekend at the Cleveland, Ohio, campus of Case Western Reserve University.

MORE SPORTS

- Soccer stalls in UAA action
- Meet the Violets: Women's tennis team
- The mighty roar of the Bobcat
- NYU golf takes top spot at ECAC

OPINION

NYU needs to democratize

NYU President John Sexton's routine Town Hall meetings last Monday turned into a heated debate with advocates for the graduate students' union and the Tuition Reform Action Coalition. Although the meeting was billed as an opportunity for the president to hear student concerns, it managed to highlight the massive gulf that exists between the administration and the rest of us.

THE TROLLEY STUFF

FRONT PAGE IMAGE

- BROWNSTONE
- 2005 HOUSING EDITION
- CALENDAR
- ARCHIVES
- FRONT PAGE IMAGE
- PURPLE PAGES
- HUNGRY FOR FAME
- THE TROLLEY STUFF
- ADVERTISING
- E-DELIVERY
- ABOUT US
- WSN JOBS
- CONTACT US
- LINKS

